BIOAGRONOMIC CHARACTERISTICS

The product contains a pool of microorganisms that, favoring the development of fungi already present in the environment such as Bacillus Subtilis and Bacillus Amyloliquefaciens, and rebalancing the microbial flora present on the plant, allow an optimal development of vegetative growth, positively predisposing the plant to overcome all the stresses of an abiotic and biotic nature. Their development creates an antagonistic system unsuitable for the development of pathogens, such as deterioration of the flower and fruit.

FINAL RESULT

- Balanced nutrition to increase the state of well-being of the plant.
- Allows the plant to create an unfavorable situation for all those microorganisms that can create production difficulties.
- Fruit without residue.
